

Racial Bias in Police Stops

Wednesday, October 28, 7:00 PM

Flint Hills Room, K-State Student Union

Professor Charles Epp

School of Public Affairs and Administration
University of Kansas

*Co-author of Pulled Over: How Police Stops Define Race and Citizenship

University of Chicago Press, 2015

Research funded by a National Science Foundation grant

“Pulled Over is a searing portrayal of the everyday indignities borne by African Americans in their routine encounters with the police on the nation’s highways”— Jeffrey Fagan, Columbia School of Law

Sponsored by the Manhattan Alliance for Peace and Justice, First Congregational United Church of Christ, Manhattan Unitarian Fellowship, K-State Black Student Union, Manhattan-Riley County Coalition for Equal Justice, K-State American Ethnic Studies Student Association, K-State departments of American Ethnic Studies, Sociology-Anthropology-Social Work, Political Science, History, Women’s Studies, Philosophy, and the K-State School of Leadership Studies

