

Mission Moment: Challenge Together
October 15, 2017

Remember how to make a church with your hands?

“Here is the church,
Here is the steeple,
Open the doors
And see all the people!”

This little exercise with fingers and palms reminds me of what WE—as the people of the church—do. I believe we challenge ourselves and each other through Sunday school and through sermons and through discerning our ever-speaking God. We do this so that we can love where there’s hate, and so we can heal where there is pain.

And we challenge ourselves to do all this together, because together we are stronger. When we feel that amazing strength, we are able to challenge ourselves and each other to love and to heal and to spread God’s extravagant welcome both inside and outside of the church doors!

May God bless,

Jim Mock
