Sandy is our Administrative Assistant and Bookkeeper, which means she is the friendly face or voice you encounter when you contact the church office on weekdays. She is responsible for maintaining the church database and records, publishing the bulletins and newsletters, tracking financial contributions, and holding the loose ends together. So if you have a question, give her a call - if she doesn't have the answer, she will try to put you in touch with someone who does.

Originally from the San Francisco Bay Area, Sandy has lived in Manhattan for more than 45 years. She comes to First Congregational UCC after retiring as Publications Director for the International Association for Jazz Education. She has a Bachelor's degree in Anthropology from K-State and enjoys interacting with people from all walks of life. Sandy and her husband Dave have three adult children and a very active grandchild.
